

Seeing Jesus More Clearly

A guide to growing in the knowledge of Christ

The deeper purpose of revelation is not to make us feel spiritually superior. It is to make Christ more precious, His Word more meaningful, and our lives more like Him.

What is revelational knowledge?

Revelational knowledge is the growing recognition of who Jesus is and what He has accomplished, not simply through human reasoning but through God's self-disclosure received with faith. Scripture remains the foundation, while the Holy Spirit helps the believer understand and apply its truth.

The goal is not to chase unusual experiences or hidden mysteries. The goal is to know Christ more deeply, love Him more sincerely, and live according to what He has revealed.

Jesus is the centre

Christian spiritual growth is not primarily about collecting spiritual techniques. It is about being formed around the person of Jesus Christ. Colossians 2:6–7 calls believers to continue walking in Him, rooted and built up in Him.

As our understanding of Christ grows, other areas begin to come into focus: our identity, purpose, relationships, suffering, service, holiness, hope, and responsibility toward others.

Four pathways for knowing Christ

- 1. Scripture: Read slowly, observe what the passage says, and ask what it reveals about Jesus.
- 2. Prayer: Move beyond asking only for things. Spend time thanking God, listening, confessing, and responding to what Scripture reveals.
- 3. Obedience: Truth becomes deeply understood as it is practised. Ask, “What does this truth require me to do?”
- 4. Community: Learn with mature believers, receive correction, share insights responsibly, and remain accountable.

A simple revelation journal

PASSAGE: What did I read?

REVELATION: What does this reveal about Jesus?

RESPONSE: What is changing in my thinking or attitude?

OBEDIENCE: What will I practise today?

PRAYER: What do I want to say to God about this?

Guardrails for spiritual discernment

A genuine spiritual insight should not contradict the character of Christ or the teaching of Scripture. Avoid treating every thought, dream, emotion, or impression as a message from God.

Spiritual maturity includes humility. We can say, “I believe this is what I am learning,” without claiming infallibility. Test what you hear, compare it with Scripture, and seek wise counsel when necessary.

Personal Reflection

- What is Jesus revealing to me about Himself?
- What truth do I need to believe and live from today?
- What practical step will I take in response?

A short prayer

Lord Jesus, open my understanding to know You, deepen my fellowship with You, and teach me to live from the reality of Your life in me. Let Your Word become living truth in my daily walk. Amen.

Note: This resource is devotional and educational. Scripture references are provided for personal study; readers are encouraged to read the passages in their preferred Bible translation.